6. DISCUSSION

6.1 Participatory Governance Survey Results - R. Alexander

Ryan Alexander, Institutional Effectiveness Committee Quad-Chair, presented findings from a survey of participatory governance committee members and chairs. Goals of the survey included collecting consistent and up to date committee information, evaluating processes, and assessing needs for training.

Results showed the need to:

- Standardize committee information through Diligent or other platforms.
- Provide clear written orientation materials for new committee members and chairs.
- Address and improve the constituent feedback loop with participatory governance groups.

6.2 Program Review Redesign Recommendations

Members discussed the composition and role of a new, interim program review committee. Dr. Joshua Ramirez, Academic Senate President, shared faculty concerns about adequate division representation on the proposed committee membership. Members suggested including resource members to provide additional expertise when needed.

Questions arose about the initial role of the Budget Committee in distributing resource requests. Christopher Renbarger, Vice President of Business Services, clarified that the first stage of the process is primarily administrative, involving collection and distribution of requests, which can be done by the committee chair.

M/S/C (O'Connor/Byrne) to approve the proposed program review committee structure with the addition of confidential representation. The motion passed unanimously.

Further discussion focused on implementing an interim resource request process while developing a more comprehensive program review system. The interim committee will develop new program review templates and processes over the coming year and will consider how program review connects to resource allocation.
